Discipline: Music

A contemporary interpretation of a classical feminine shape – a vintage music stand. Deconstructed with curvilinear silver shapes flowing over five silver linear elements with vintage piano key ivory and ebony inlay. These elements reference lines of music, a treble clef, string instruments, and a piano.

The next level suggests another feminine shape, a guitar, violin, or cello. Inscribed on the surface are over 70 names of Canadian women composers, singers, songwriters, and musicians from the late 1800s to now. My original working list included 100 names but I barely scratched the surface.
